Michael McNevin's songs read like short stories, he has a keen eye for detail. Accomplished guitar work and seasoned vocals underscore the characters and towns that inhabit his lyrics. A California native, he has been a main-stager at the Strawberry, High Sierra, Kerrville, and Philadelphia music festivals, and he's shared larger hall stages with Johnny Cash, Donovan, Shawn Colvin, Utah Phillips, Christine Lavin, Richie Havens, and hundreds of others on the US songwriter circuit. Michael is a winner of the Kerrville New-folk award in Texas, six-time winner of the "Song Of The Year" from the West Coast Songwriters, and chosen as a "Top 12 DIY Artist Of The Year" by The Performing Songwriter magazine. He's also an Etch A Sketch artist of some renown (not kidding) - he illustrates his lyrics, dumfounding audiences with the drawings he does on the little red toy. When he's not gigging, he owns and operates "The Mudpuddle Shop", a converted 1920's 15'x15' barbershop in his hometown of Niles, in the SF East Bay hills. Now in its tenth year, the shop is a creative hive for concerts, swaps, jams, and songwriting workshops.
